Indatatech awarded contract with Millennium Transit Services

San Antonio, Texas – 25 March 2005 – indatatech today announced

That it was awarded the 3rd Party Logistics Integration Contract for Millennium Transit Services (Millennium) in Roswell, New Mexico. Millennium is a transit bus manufacturing company, which builds the RTS for transit authorities and municipalities around the country.

Millennium, whose birth traces back to the mid 70's at General Motors, originally began as a product development mission by the government to develop specifications for rapid transit buses. New technology, visionary thinking and innovative engineering have made the RTS the leading manufactured product -comparable to none in bus production today.

"This contract represents a wonderful opportunity for indatatech and Millennium. Through indatatech's involvement, Millennium will be able to offer competitive pricing on their buses due to low supply chain costs." said Chris Fierro, VP, of Business Development for indatatech.

Indatatech will handle the procurement of all consumables, bench stock, and other production critical items. Indatatech is also the 3rd Party Integrator of Consumable items for Boeing Aerospace Support Corporation in San Antonio, Texas.

Indatatech is a fixed asset management and supply chain integration company, headquartered in San Antonio, Texas. Indatatech has offices in Houston, and Atlanta.
